UNDERSTANDING MENTAL HEALTH

a health column from the

Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration

U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

Volunteers and the Aged

"To give is to receive"—and volunteer workers who help the aged in institutions, nursing homes, and community programs often feel that the experience does as much for them as for those being helped.

This is particularly true when the volunteers themselves are elderly and need more human contact as well as a feeling of usefulness.

But it can also be true for younger people who are open and flexible enough to enrich their personalities through working with older folks of varied backgrounds and experience.

Doing volunteer work is not necessarily simple and easy, whether with the elderly or in other fields. It involves careful assessment of one's own needs and attitudes and matching these with the people and tasks in the volunteer situation.

Among the traits of a good volunteer for the aged—apart from the obvious ones of compassion and commitment—are:

- A willingness to accept the views of the elderly and not try to change them.
- An ability to work with all kinds of people without making moral judgments.
- A sensitivity and an alertness to the emotional needs of the aged.

Volunteers can do all kinds of things for and with the aged, such as telephoning and writing letters for them; driving them to religious services, recreational places, or appointments; taking them on shopping trips; reading to them; visiting shut-ins; and helping with household tasks.

The mental health of older people is much improved when they are helped in ways that promote rather than detract from their self-sufficiency—when they are led to find resources and activities that bring them personal satisfaction and increase their self-esteem.

Prospective volunteers may share certain generally held misconceptions about the aged. For example: Old people aren't capable; all old people are senile; the elderly have disengaged from life; old people are too rigid, unable to adjust; old people are unable to learn new skills.

Volunteers who work with the aged are often amazed to find that such beliefs are largely untrue. In the right circumstances and with proper stimulation and leadership, the aged readily disprove the old misconceptions.

"Volunteerism" has many ramifications, from the standpoints of institutions and agencies using volunteers, of those who direct their work, and of the volunteers themselves.

The Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has offices concerned with volunteers and with the mental health of the aged. Wed In Afternoon Ceremony

MRS. WILLIAM DANIEL HIX
the former Miss Brenda Sue Bowling

The marriage of Miss Brenda Sue Bowling to William Daniel Hix took place Saturday afternoon, September 1, at Woodland Baptist Church in Colleen, Virginia.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stevens Bowling of Appomattox, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hix of Pamplin.

The Rev. William Goldie of Woodland Baptist Church and the Rev. William Trimyer of Elon Baptist Church of Pamplin officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Arrangements of white gladiolas, carnations, and majestic daisies decorated the altar area and the kneeling bench; palm arrangements and greenery provided additional decorations for the altar and candelabra.

Miss Sarah Umbarger of Colleen, cousin of the bride, presented the organ music for the ceremony and also accompanied Mr. Clark Harvey of Amherst who sang "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Cynthia Hix, sister of the bridegroom, played the piano in accompaniment to "Devoted to You" and "One Hand, One Heart." Both songs were preceded by Miss Jane Hix, also the sister of the bridegroom.

The bride, escorted and presented in marriage by her father, wore a gown fashioned of white Qiana crepe and Venice lace. The Empire bodice was finished with a Queen Anne neckline and cap sleeves. The neckline and sleeves were appliqued with lace which encircled the waistline. The full floor length skirt ended in a chapel train. Her mantilla was of finger-tip length of silk illusion, edged and appliqued with Venice Lace. The bride carrid a silk cascade of white daisies, pink sweetheart roses, small light blue daisies, and fresh baby's breath.

Miss Pettis Bowling of Appomattox, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Other attendants were Miss Nancy Bryant of Homestead, Florida, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Donna Coleman of Appomattox; Miss Cindy Harris of Springfield, Virginia, cousin of the bride; and Miss Cathie Tanner of Lynchburg. All of the attendants wore floor-length gowns of light blue Qiana fashioned with split cape sleeves, a draped bodice and an A-line skirt. The honor attendant carried a bouquet of white daisy pom-poms, yellow sweetheart roses, and baby's breath.

The other attendants carried nosegays of yellow daisies, yellow pom-poms, and baby's breath. The flowers were provided by Mrs. Eliza Baldwin of Nelson Florist.

Mr. Hix was best man for his son. Other groomsmen were Mac Weaver of Williamsburg, Ed Bowers of Lexington, Keith Coleman of Appomattox, and Thomas Hix of Pamplin, cousin of the bridegroom. The groom wore a light blue tuxedo; the groomsmen wore tuxedos with light blue jackets and contrasting dark blue trousers.

Miss Mary Beth Hix, sister of the groom, and Miss Anne Marie Umbarger, cousin of the bride, were flower girls. They wore floor length gowns of white eyelet with an underskirt of light blue. Master Thomas Bryant of Amherst, cousin of the bride, was the ring bearer. He wore a light blue pin-striped suit. Mrs. Janet Morgan, cousin of the groom, and Miss Deborah Harris, cousin of the bride, attended the guest register and presented the guests with programs of the ceremony.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of deep plum. The groom's mother wore a floor length gown of coral with a lace cape. Both mothers wore white orchid shoulder corsages.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Dolly Davis of Shipman, wore an ivory gown with a red rose corsage. The groom's grandmother, Mrs. Bessie Oliver of Altavista, wore a beige gown accented with pink flowers; she also wore a corsage of pink roses. The wedding festivities included the celebration of the fifty-third wedding anniversary of the grandparents of the bride, Dolly and Jim Davis, who were married on September 1, 1926.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Bowling were hosts for the reception at the VFW Hall of Colleen. Mr. Frank Coffey and his quartet provided music for the occasion. Mrs. Jane Mays, cousin of the bride, directed the wedding and catered the reception. Flowers for the reception hall were provided by Mrs. Dorothy Giles, aunt of the bride. Reception helpers included Miss Doris Hughes, Miss Ann McCraw, Miss Penny Cabaniss, Miss Janet Fitzgerald, all of Appomattox; Miss Beth Bryant of Amherst; Miss Shelly Allen of Lynchburg; Mrs. Veronica Tanner and Mrs. Rose Crabtree of Concord. Robert Earl Pankey was chosen as photographer for the occasion.

After honeymooning in the Smokey Mountains, the couple will reside in Pamplin.

MRS. THOMAS EDWARD MOORE
the former Miss Marjorie Hope Reynolds

Wed in Double-Ring Ceremony

Miss Marjorie Hope Reynolds and Thomas Edward Moore Jr., were married Saturday, September 1, at Providence Baptist Church in Red House. The Rev. Omar Guy Burnett, former pastor, performed the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony. The Rev. Hilton Farrow Moore, pastor, assisted.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Foster Reynolds of Red House. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip G. Reynolds, also of Red House, are her grandparents.

Mr. Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Moore, Sr. and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robertson, all of Appomattox.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional white gown of tulle and chantilly lace with portrait neckline and chapel train. Her veil was trimmed with chantilly lace and seed pearls.

She wore a pearl necklace worn by her mother in her own wedding and a gold bracelet that belonged to her maternal great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Annie Taylor Barnes of Elm City, N. C.

Her bouquet was of white roses, blue and white daisies and baby's breath.

Miss Kathy Faye Toombs of Saxe was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Lonnette Reynolds Layne of Cullen, Mrs. Christine Reynolds Bratton and Miss Gail Reynolds of Red House, cousins of the bride, Mrs. Victoria Reynolds of Red House, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Batina Moore of Appomattox, the groom's sister.

The attendants wore full length dresses of blue organza and blue picture hats accented with white daisies at the back. They carried bouquets of pastel daisies.

Thomas Edward Moore, Sr. was his son's best man. Groomsmen were the bride's brothers, Phillip and William Reynolds, her cousin, Martin Reynolds, and William Austin Jr., all of Red House and Ricky Burge of Appomattox.

Miss Rhonda Bryant of Appomattox was flower girl, and David Harris of Durham, N. C., cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Miss Deborah Rush of Appomattox was pianist. Mrs. Page Petty of Red House was mistress of ceremonies.

The bride's parents gave a reception at their home following the ceremony. Mrs. Julie Austin of Red House and Mrs. Cindy Thomas of Appomattox served the wedding cake, and Miss Anita Reynolds of Waynesboro served punch.

After a southern wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Appomattox.

Mrs. Moore is a graduate of Randolph Henry High School and attended John H. Daniel Community College at Keysville. She is employed at Parkway Grocery in Appomattox.

Mr. Moore is a graduate of Appomattox County High School. He works at Simplimatic Engineering in Lynchburg.
